Requirements: ⛭ DirectX 9.0 (Direct3D) compatible graphics card/driver ⛭ 512MB RAM Limitations: ⛭ watermark on output I found the first sintax or way of coding a script for java games, etc, and this is the first game of this kind. Of course the code does not do a lot, but it proves some functions and capabilities of java to perform this kind of programming. I found that it can use: - Basic objects that have properties and methods - Arrays that have more properties - If and switch conditions - String formating and manipulation - Threads - Basic arrays of characters and coordinates - Animated characters on the screen - Basic network support - simple GUI (including menus) - animated sounds - support for Font, Palettes, and Images To download it in.jar format, go to the following link: What you can do: - You can load and save your games with it. In other words, if you have a script with the code you want to modify, you can modify the code to save it. - You can also test the whole script. - If you have more ideas, you can contact me by email. The code is written in Basic, which is a simplified version of Java that does not have all the abstract classes of Java. You can modify it as much as you want, and I do not care about that, but I want to know what you can do. In fact, I only want to know the good things, and the bad things if there are. I would like to know if there are other scripts like this, and if you can use it or modify it. Based on the very simple and sweet game "smiley salad", I made a more complicated game, based on a more complicated story. Get to the end and the game will be presented! Smiley Salad is the creation of me, David Park, in 2006. The idea came out
